AROUND THE CLUB

Greetings from the President

The month of May was quite jam packed for me.

Early in the month, committee member John Lovell, drove fellow committee member Kay Maloney and I along with John's partner Jane, over to Devonport for the North-West Musicians Club Jam. It was really good to see how they ran their jams and the NW Coast has a great musician pool, with many coming along for the session. It was nice to catch up with Perry as well. John had fun playing with some different musicians also. We will be taking part in a joint jam with them in Deloraine on Sunday afternoon, the 18th August, so put that one in your diary.

Launceston's Bad Dad Orchestra performed in semi acoustic mode for the final MOFO Sessions at the Design Centre. The place was packed and it sure was different having them play in a more laid back way. A great afternoon and we sold a fair bit of merchandise for them. Their next Launceston show is on Friday 7th June in the Loft-Upstairs at the Saloon.
<https://www.facebook.com/events/274511696836806/>

The weekend before Blues on Broadbeach I flew over to Victoria to catch two of Cedric Burnside's shows as I knew his Broadbeach shows would be packed and I wanted to see him up close and personal. The first one was in Castlemaine and the second in Brunswick, both shows were sold out and Brian Jay, who he had performing with him was equally as talented and performs on Cedric's latest CD as well as recording and producing it. The shows were just fabulous, with Cedric starting on acoustic guitar, then Brian joining him on guitar, then Brian on the drums and Cedric on electric guitar, then Cedric on drums and Brian on guitar. Both shared the vocals too. Of course after each show I had a chat and a photo, at the second show he was gushing to his tour manager about how I was at the show last night, we had a good laugh, especially when I lined up after his first Broadbeach show and he just cracked up seeing me again and we had another cuddle and he was going on how I go to all his shows, he really appreciated that I made the effort. A very down to earth kind of guy. I caught a bit of his second Broadbeach show, but my feet were too sore to wait in line after that set for a fourth cuddle and photo, plus I had to give the other fans a chance lol. Here is the third photo I had with Cedric, you can see the joy in both our faces.

Blues on Broadbeach was just fabulous, so many great acts and people to catch up with. My two children also came along, which was an added bonus.

The LBC sponsorship of the Youth in Blues section of the Launceston Competitions was held on 30 May at the Door of Hope. We only ended up with 3 contestants due to ill health of others. See inside for details.

We have our AGM coming up soon, please consider taking up a position.

Have a great month. Cheers Kaz ...
Karin Grant – President

Our AGM is coming up, can you help out?

It won't be long until the AGM is upon us. Please remember that ALL positions become vacant at this time. For the LBC to keep going we will need several new financial members to come on board, as we reluctantly have bode farewell to a few through the year. There will be a few Executive positions up for grabs as well, so please have a think about it. We are in the process of finalising the date for this and will let you know the details as soon as possible. I will send an email to members to let you know, along with a copy of the nomination form and a rough guide to what the roles entail (they aren't scary). Kaz

We would love your feedback

At our last two jams we have been trialling an electronic drum kit (thanks Dave) and we would like to hear from any of you who used it, how you felt about it. Did you enjoy playing it and how did it compare to the regular acoustic kit? Audience members are invited to comment as well.

Please email any feedback to launcestonbluesclub@yahoo.com.au so that the committee can make some decisions about the kit for jams, going forward. Thank you.

50 Years of Woodstock and our August monthly LBC jam 26-08-2019

With the legendary Woodstock celebrating its 50 years since “the happening” happened this August, we at the LBC thought it would be groovy to have a themed jam around that and get you to play some of your favourite tunes from back in the day from artists who played at the Festival. Dust off your flares and tie-dyed shirts/frocks, get your beads and headbands out and put some flowers in your hair. We'll give away some CDs to the best dressed audience member(s) and performer(s). You have plenty of time to practice. ☺

For inspiration, you can check out the line-up and all the tunes that were played here: <https://www.woodstock.com/history/>

What's going to happen??

- Each Muso fills in a simple registration form as they arrive. If you are a multi - instrumentalist, then fill a form for each instrument you play.

- Names will be drawn out to create completely random and new band lineups.

- Each new band will have time to get together agree on and prepare 3 songs before getting up to play them....

Blues on Broadbeach Roundup

What an amazing time was had at this year's Blues on Broadbeach. The weather was great, the music excellent and the people just cruising along and soaking it all up over 4 days and nights. The Lachy Doley Band was the first act of the festival, what an amazingly intense performance. So many acts to choose a favourite, I also enjoyed Mojo Webb, Marshall & the Fro, Hussy Hicks, 8 Ball Aitken and his band, Kelly Auty, Geoff Achison, Blue Shaddy, Rhythm X Revival, Cedric Burnside (of course) and many others. Our Bad Dad Orchestra were very well received, I think even they were amazed at the response to their shows and they sure got themselves a whole bunch of new fans, many hoping they will return next year. This free festival is going along in leaps and bounds and the dates for 2020 are 14th to 17th of May. Accommodation is already filling up if you think you may want to go, best get booking. (Kaz)

It is always great catching up with fellow Tasmanians who make the trek up there as well.

Launceston Competitions – Youth Awards

The LBC sponsorship of the Youth in Blues section of the Launceston Competitions was held on 30 May at the Door of Hope. Kay Maloney and I attended on behalf of the Launceston Blues Club. We only ended up with 3 contestants due to ill health of others but were treated to some great performance by the entrants not only of the Blues Section, but other categories as well. The guitar solo section attracted young people of all ages and some didn't even look old enough to attend school yet, but they could play. Well done to all their music teachers.

In the Junior Blues Category (Under 16yo) we had Serena Gray of Launceston College up first. Serena is a vocalist who was accompanied by her father Paul on keyboard. She sang two tunes – Trouble in Mind and Ain't Got Nothing but the Blues, with a nice bit of scatting in the latter song. Serena has a great voice for someone so young and I am sure will go a long way. Next up was Zac Ferguson being adjudicated on his drum performance and he was accompanied by his brothers on guitars, we all know them as The Fergusons, so we know how good they already are. Zac's song choices were The Thrill is Gone and Cold Shot. The adjudicator chose Serena as the winner, noting how much she had improved since last year's performance and Zac then was announced as second place getter.

For the Senior Blues Category (16-19yo) there was only one entrant, Jonothan (Harrison) from Newstead College. Jonothan was a three piece band with lead guitar/vocals, bass guitar and drums. They performed Crossroads and Lets Stick Together. Naturally they won as they were the only entrant on the night. When I asked which one was Jonothan, they said they all were, so I guess that is their band name.

Thank you to Nancy of the Launceston Competitions team for inviting us along. Kaz

The 20-year-old Southern guitarist giving hope to the blues

By Matt Wake | mwake@al.com

Someone once complimented Christone “Kingfish” Ingram by referring to him as a “guitar god,” but Ingram “didn’t like it.” The sentiment was nice and all. God just felt a bit much. Even if you’re the most talented and promising new blues singer/guitarists to come along in years.

Just 20, Ingram sings and plays with feel and authority far beyond that age. The Mississippi native’s appearance on Netflix superhero show “Luke Cage” led to coverage in Rolling Stone’s annual “Hot List” issue. NPR and Forbes have covered Ingram and his music too. YouTube videos of Ingram’s live performances, including covers of Prince’s power ballad “Purple Rain,” B.B. King’s quintessential blues hit “The Thrill is Gone” and early Jimi Hendrix single “Hey Joe,” have boosted buzz too.

Ingram’s debut album “Kingfish” was released May 17.

The LP contains the stomping single “Outside Of This Town” and a nifty duet with blues icon Buddy Guy called “Fresh Out.” Other highlights include slow burners “That’s Fine By Me” and “Love Ain’t My Favorite Word” and “Before I’m Old” a slinky rock-tinged track that contains Ingram’s favorite guitar solo - cut in a single take - on the disc.

On a recent afternoon, Ingram checked in via phone from a relative’s home in Baltimore before packing his suitcase to return to the road.

Edited excerpts are below.

Christone, do you consider yourself a guitar player first or a singer first?

I was a singer first. Because when I was younger, that’s what I was focused on. I had an interest in playing the guitar at that time but I wasn’t big on like I was on singing because I raised in church so that’s all I did was sing. But I’m a louder guitar player though. [Laughs.]

How did getting cast in season two of “Luke Cage” change things for you?

Oh man. It gave me a more urban fanbase, like a lot more younger people started to gravitate toward my music because of that.

Last year you appeared with the influential rapper Rakim on an installment of NPR’s “Tiny Desk” stripped-down live music series. What’s something interesting you learned from making music with Rakim?

Man, working with Rakim was cool. [Laughs.] Just his flow, his cadence, everything was dope. One thing that people don’t know is rap for years has incorporated live instrumentation, so when you put his smoothness and his lyrical content together it’s already great, but when you add that good band to it, it was something magical. That was a great experience, most definitely.

(CONTINUED)..... "Listen" a song on your album with Keb 'Mo guesting is more of an R&B track than blues. I like the blues material on your record and its powerful and you're great at it and that's your wheelhouse. But has it ever occurred to you that your breakthrough to a big mainstream audience might come through something besides a blues song. Maybe an R&B song. Maybe something else.

Yeah, because if you see the way things are going, I guess you could say mainstream people are not wanting the I-IV-V type blues stuff. What I really to do is play all genres. But my root and my background will always be blues. So who knows what could happen?

How many guitars do you current own? And how many guitars is too many?

I think I have maybe 12 or 13 at the moment. I had more but I gave some stuff away and ended up selling some stuff. I don't think you could own too many.

Got a cool story from cutting the track "Fresh Out" with Buddy Guy for your LP? He's still such a wild animal on the guitar.

Oh, most definitely, but we didn't cut it together. He overdubbed his parts, but it was funny because I think that song was meant for him on one of his records but they gave it to me. And when he heard it he liked and wanted to get on it. And I was all for that. [Laughs] I was hoping he would get on it.

I remember seeing you a couple years ago on Motley Crue bassist Nikki Sixx's YouTube series "My Favorite Riff." Did you ever get into those 80s hard-rock bands, like Motley Crue, Van Halen, Guns N' Roses or whoever?

Of course, Eddie Van Halen. I liked Kiss. I remember I saw I think a concert from '87 on VH1 when I was younger and that's how I got into Kiss. AC/DC, of course.

Listen here: https://www.youtube.com/watch?time\_continue=146&v=Zv4u4Zy-rs8

You're quite advanced for your age as a blues guitarist. To get there, how many hours a day would you practice and at what age did you start hitting it hard like that?

I don't have a set time for practicing, if it's me just picking up the instrument and playing or me setting up the computer and watching different videos and searching for certain modes and stuff. It was pretty much like that from the beginning because I always wanted to get better. So, from the time I started playing bass at the (Delta) Blues Museum it was always like that. I practice a lot.

How did you celebrate when your first album finally came out?

I played a show that night and right after me and my band we did cheers in the green room and talked about it and that's pretty much it. We didn't have like a big party or anything. If I was at home it probably would've been a whole different story. [Laughs.]

You're from the same Clarksdale, Miss. area known for being the former stomping grounds of legendary bluesman Robert Johnson. Besides that story about Johnson supposedly making the deal with The Devil at the crossroads (selling his soul in exchange for spellbinding guitar skills) what's the best Robert Johnson story you ever heard, from growing up around there?

Um, let's see. I live in Friar's Point and there used to be a pharmacy store there and he would actually come out and sit on the benches in front of the pharmacy and sit there and play and people would gather around and watch him, including Muddy Waters. Those benches are not there anymore. But there's a guy up in Little Rock who has them. But yeah, that was one of the stories I heard growing up about Robert Johnson being in Coahoma County, going to that pharmacy and sitting on those benches and playing.
